It is a Tree of Life

A highlight of The Koret Pavilion at the Harold & Libby Ziff Center for Jewish Life at Stanford are two pieces of unique artwork that were created to embody and express the vision and values of Hillel at Stanford.

These unique pieces reflect deeply Jewish ethics, traditions and themes, while they also embody universal values and bring sheer beauty to the larger Stanford University campus community.

The central image of both the Hillel Windows and the ark is a tree. The tree is a Jewish symbol of Torah, the foundation of the Jewish people and, in its fullest meaning, represents moral wisdom that nourishes us and branches out into many aspects of our lives.

The tree—with deep roots, a strong trunk, and branches that extend outward—is also a universal metaphor of the educational process which builds strong foundations that support expansion and growth.

About the Ark

The wood inlay ark, located in Kechillah Hall, features a tree with ten pomegranates on its branches. According to Jewish tradition, the pomegranate has 613 seeds, which represent the 613 mitzvot, or commandments, found in the Torah. The number ten symbolizes the Ten Commandments received by Moses at Mount Sinai.

Beneath the tree, Hebrew letters made from Koa wood spell "Ez Chayim Her," referencing the phrase taken from Proverbs and found in the Jewish prayer book: "It is a tree of life to those who hold fast to it."

This unique pomegranate tree is made from a variety of woods: cypress, cedar, poplar, bog redwood and blue mahoe make up the leaves. The trunk is imbuaya, while the red pomegranates are carob. These are inlaid against a maple background.

About the Hillel Windows

The design of these 14 windows was the culmination of an interactive process between the stained glass artists and Stanford students who shared their vision for what these windows should embody and evoke.

The center of the windows is the trunk of a tree with branches extending outward, giving life to almond blossoms and biblical fruits indigenous to the land of Israel. Along the branches are Jewish texts taken from a variety of sources. The texts, selected by Stanford students, express Jewish ethics that also reflect Judaism's universal ideas.

The center of the tree's trunk is in flames, recalling the image of the burning bush. Four of the flames are Hebrew letters that spell the word "Hineini," meaning, "Here I am," evoking a moment of revelation. Situated in the midst of a demanding campus environment, these windows remind us to pause, to stop and listen, so that we can connect to our own inner truths.

At the edges of the design are parting waters, illuminating the separation of water from sky in the biblical creation story or, perhaps, representing the splitting waters of the Red Sea—reminding us of the particular Jewish redemption story that instructs the Jewish people to always remember their obligation to ensure that no people is ever enslaved.

THE GROWTH ACT
TODAY
(S. 2069/H.R. 2965)

WHAT?

The GROWTH Act, or the Global Resources and Opportunities for Women to Thrive Act, is an innovative piece of legislation that would make U.S. development assistance more effective in addressing poverty by promoting economic opportunities for women and their families worldwide.

WHY?

Decades of research and experience have shown that women who are living in poverty, when they have any extra income, reinvest it in their children, creating a positive cycle of growth for the family. Greater economic opportunity for a woman means her daughters are more likely to go to school, her babies are more likely to survive infancy, and her family is more likely to eat nutritious meals. Women also tend to reinvest extra income into better housing, improving the quality of life for the entire family. The woman herself is less vulnerable to trafficking and HIV/AIDS, and has more options in the face of violence or abuse.

HOW?

The GROWTH Act would reshape U.S. assistance and trade policy to:

- Promote women's ability to start and grow businesses (micro to SME)
- Enhance women's land and property rights
- Increase women's access to higher quality employment
- Ensure that the benefits of global trade reach poor women

It would also create a $40 million incentive fund at USAID to actively encourage U.S. economic opportunity projects in developing countries that incorporate women's needs.

WHO?

The GROWTH Act is sponsored in the U.S. Senate (S. 2069) by Senator Richard J. Durbin and Senator Kay Bailey Hutchison and in the U.S. House of Representatives (H.R. 2965) by Representatives Nita Lowey and Ileana Ros-Lehtinen.

The GROWTH Act is endorsed by nearly 60 organizations, including:

- Habitat for Humanity International
- Evangelical Lutheran Church in America
- The Episcopal Church
- United Methodist Church, General Board of Church & Society
- The ONE Campaign
- Women Thrive Worldwide (formerly the Women's Edge Coalition)

ABOUT TiE

TiE is an open and inclusive not-for-profit network of entrepreneurs and professionals. Founded in 1992 in California's Silicon Valley, we have since grown into a global network with 54 chapters in 12 countries. Our number one goal is to generate and nurture the next generation of entrepreneurs. To this end, we continue to flourish by creating innovative, cutting edge and quality educational programming, networking and exclusive events. The strength of our organization lies in the value we provide to our three key stakeholders: Sponsors, Charter Members and Entrepreneurs. We recognize that wealth comes from shared knowledge, which is why mentorship by our carefully selected Charter Members is vital to the success of our entrepreneurs. By committing to a high standard of excellence, we continue to provide our Sponsors the best access to experienced entrepreneurs in the Silicon Valley.

TiECON

TiEcon is our annual flagship event, celebrating its seventeenth year in 2010. It is the largest conference for entrepreneurs in the world. Each year in May, over 3,000 attendees gather for two days of thought-provoking topics on entrepreneurship, industry trends and opportunities. They are delivered by renowned keynote speakers, eminent entrepreneurs, investors, and corporate executives. Our sponsors find TiEcon to be an invaluable opportunity to gain exposure in the global entrepreneurial community. TiEcon receives extensive media coverage from prestigious print publications like The Wall Street Journal, Forbes, Business Week and Fortune. The conference is also covered by NPR, ABC, CNN and other news media. TiEcon 2010 will be hosted at the Santa Clara Convention Center, Friday, May 14th – Saturday, May 15th, with an exclusive, invitation only opening reception on Thursday evening, May 13th.

SPONSORSHIP

Sponsors are the lifeblood of TiE Silicon Valley. It is the financial support and active participation of our valued Sponsors that has made TiE the global brand name for "Building the Entrepreneurial Ecosystem." Sponsorship is ideally suited for enterprises such as Venture Capital firms, Law firms, Accounting firms, Commercial banks, Investment banks, Private Equity firms, Corporations and other Service Providers to entrepreneurs. Our current sponsors are recognized leaders in their respective industries who have realized the unique privileges associated with sponsoring TiE.

SPONSOR BENEFITS

By becoming a sponsor you will receive these key benefits:

- Increase your company's engagement with the premier, not-for-profit entrepreneurs' organization in the Silicon Valley
- Gain access to innovative entrepreneurs and locate potential promising portfolio companies and potential strategic partners
- Showcase your company at TiEcon, the largest annual conference for entrepreneurs in the world
- Participate as a speaker or as an advisor at TiE programs
- Host your own event with our entrepreneurs
- Share your knowledge with the entrepreneurial community and help ensure success of future generations of entrepreneurs

"As current charter members and sponsors and past board members, at Mayfield Fund, we have seen how TiE is a truly entrepreneur-friendly and professional organization. It has been especially impressive to see how they have scaled to meet the demand for their value proposition and how the content at TiECON is unerringly on the pulse of current trends. We look forward to continuing our productive collaboration."

Navin Chaddha
Managing Director, Mayfield Fund

MAJOR PROGRAMS, FORUMS AND EVENTS – 2010

SPECIAL INTEREST GROUPS (SIGs)

These industry-specific forums connect seasoned entrepreneurs, industry executives and venture capitalists to provide a high-quality network and community for SIG members and to the broader TiE community. Our SIG programs encompass four major industries: Internet, Wireless, Software and Cleantech. Each SIG hosts at least 4 events per year that are focused on discussing emerging areas of growth, industry trends, new technologies and other pertinent topics within each respective field. These industry sectors are vital components of the entrepreneurial ecosystem and the focal points of TiE Silicon Valley's annual flagship conference, TiEcon.

FORUMS

- Women's Forum: TiE Women's Forum (TWF) is a forum open to all women leaders and entrepreneurs who are striving to create highly valuable professional networks and business relationships. The TWF offers opportunities to access and provide mentorship, share ideas, issues and experiences of women entrepreneurs and rising leaders. Most TWF events are open to all entrepreneurs regardless of gender
- Economic Forum: TiE's Economic Forum is a program discussing local and global economic issues and policy. This forum focuses on innovation and entrepreneurship and functions as a venue to generate ideas and policy positions relating to entrepreneurship and growth
- Growth Company Forum: TiE Growth Company Forum (GCF), launched in February 2009, focuses on providing inspiration, education and advice to entrepreneurs in midstage companies and corporate business units. The forum addresses the needs of entrepreneurs engaged in activities such as spin out/care out of corporate assets, management buy outs, mergers, acquisitions and IPOs
- CEO Forum: TiE's CEO Forum provides a non-threatening and collaborative platform for experienced and new CEOs to foster ongoing development in an intimate group setting. CEO Forums are led by highly experienced and knowledgeable CEOs among our TiE Charter Members

- Legends and Leaders: TiE's Legends & Leaders series showcases visionaries, academicians, investors, venture capitalists and others who have demonstrated extraordinary success in their chosen fields and share these inspirational life experiences with TiE stakeholders
- Life Sciences Forum: The mission of TiE Life Sciences (TiE LS) is to foster entrepreneurship in its major segments, namely Biotechnology, Medical Technologies (Devices, Equipment and Supplies), Pharmaceuticals and Healthcare information technologies

ENTREPRENEUR EVENTS

- Business Mixer: Our business mixers are networking events that provide a cozy and informal ambience for entrepreneurs, investors, and professionals to come together, enjoy food and drink, and make lasting connections
- Business Builder's Breakfast (BBB): Our Business Builder's Breakfast series is a special event exclusively for TiE members, hosted in an intimate setting by our Charter Members, who offer their expert advice on pressing business issues

TiE INSTITUTE

The Institute offers TiE members practical training in soft and hard skills, delivered by a world-class faculty drawn from TiE Charter Members, Sponsors, and their network of experts cultivated over the years. At TiE, we continually strive to educate, inspire and prepare our entrepreneurs.

"TiE Silicon Valley represents the best of what our industry strives for – insights from experienced entrepreneurs, new investment opportunities, and provocative dialogue on emerging technologies and discoveries. We are thrilled to be part of this organization as sponsors and look forward to another great year in 2010."
